Idea of turning motel into center for inmates fizzles

Council member says half-way house was the 'wrong facility at the wrong place at the wrong time.'

By Steve Marschke

A proposal to turn a West Capitol Ave. motel into a half-way house for low risk federal prisoners has been scrapped, said a spokesman for the project's sponsor on Tuesday.

John Forren, vice president of Eclectic Communications, Inc. (ECI), which championed the project, said his firm did not get the go-ahead from the federal government to operate the facility. The Federal Bureau of Prisons had solicited bids from private companies for a single such facility in the Sacramento area, and ECI had proposed the Best for Less Siesta Motel at 1731 West Capitol Ave.

"The bureau of prisons selected another provider," said Forren. He added that he did not know the location of the Sacramento-area site which won the bid.

Greg Potnick, a member of the West Sacramento City Council, said he was relieved that the project will not go forward. Potnick, a state parole agent, was asked to look into the proposal by Mayor Cindy Tuttle when ECI first made its plans known in February.

"ECI provides a good mechanism for minimum risk prisoners," said Potnick. "But my candid opinion is that this was the wrong facility in the wrong place at the wrong time. We're trying to upgrade the West Capitol corridor right now, and this kind of facility would not be consistent with that."

Officers 'just doing their jobs'

By Steve Marschke

A number of trees outside homes in the 15th Street and Park Blvd. areas of West Sacramento have sprouted blue ribbons during the past week.

The ribbons signify support for two city police officers facing charges of brutality during an arrest last month, in which batons were used and the suspect suffered a head injury. The suspect was later released, and charged with subsequent felonies in both West Sacramento and Sacramento.

Rosalie Williams, a Park Blvd. resident, said her blue ribbons were placed with her permission by a couple of neighbors.

"A couple of girls contacted me Monday," said Williams. "One asked me if I'd read the article in the paper about the two policemen they suspended. They asked if it would be O.K. if they put blue ribbons in my trees, and I said yes."

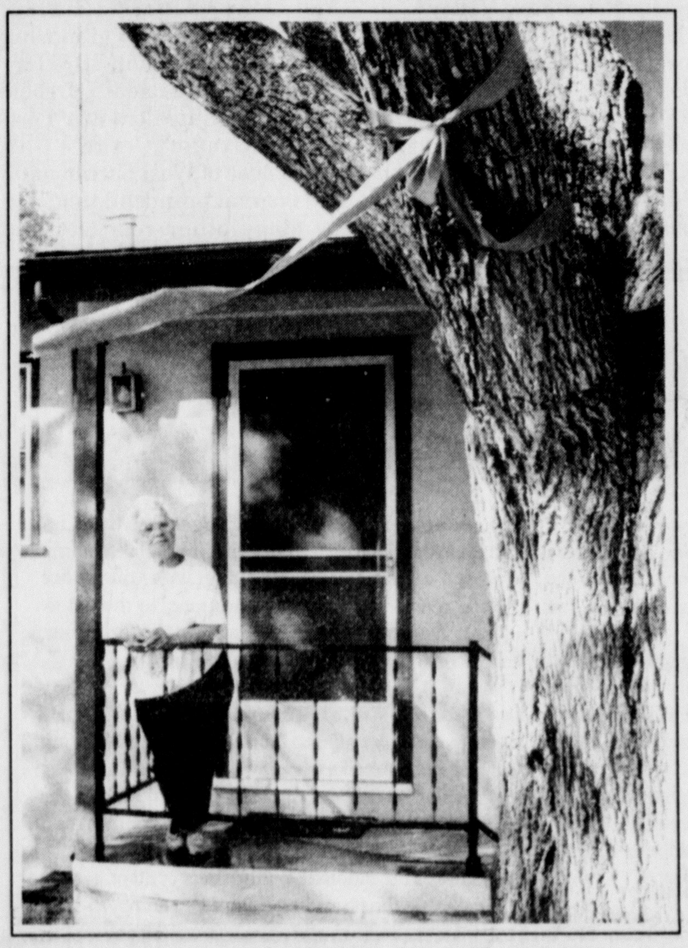

Williams added that the ribbons were an expression of disagreement with idea of punishing officers Donald Donoho and Jeffrey Neuman.

"We're protesting that they put those police officers on suspension," she commented. "We're for the police officers. We don't think they should have been put on suspension."

Williams added that the suspect "was a drunk," and "we don't like to see police officers get suspended for doing their jobs."

In addition to internal department discipline, the officers face charges of assault by a peace officer and assault with a deadly weapon.

Arraignment is scheduled for April 18.

Local man dies from his crash injuries

A third person has died from her injuries caused in the April 8, two-car traffic accident which closed Jefferson Blvd. and the barge canal bridge for several hours.

The accident becomes the second since September in which three people were killed. On Sept. 22, three people died from their injuries when two pickup trucks collided at the Jefferson/Linden Rd. intersection.

The latest victim is Cedric Shannon, 33, a Summerfield Dr. resident who died on April 18. Nina Burlington and the couple's two year old son, Marcus, died earlier of their wounds.

The three were among five people in a Ford Tempo which was travelling northbound on Jefferson near the barge canal following a period of rain on April 8.

A Ford Mustang driven by Kimber Harris southbound across the bridge "crossed into the opposing lane for an unknown reason," said Officer Dan Ruden of the West Sacramento Police Department. Ruden added that blood alcohol tests on Harris have come back positive, but declined to disclose the level of alcohol found.

Harris and her three year old child survived the impact.

An investigation into the crash continues.

Local board has power to ticket parents for their kids' truancy

By David Weller

West Sacramento's newly formed School Attendance Review Board (SARB) is beginning to have an impact on attendance in the district, according to program administrator Steve Vaczovsky.

"The whole goal is to educate kids, and the bottom line is, we are not going to get them educated unless they're in school," Vaczovsky said.

Created by the state education code, SARBs are are not new, but they are regaining popularity in the state as a method of solving hardcore truancy problems.

The Washington district board has seen 22 cases since its inception in October of 1994.

Included on the board are two district administrators, a representative from Yolo County Child Protective Services, a youth delinquency diversion officer from the city of West Sacramento, a school nurse, a district psychologist, and a community volunteer. In addition, school administrators from River City High and Bryte Elementary are on the board.

According to Vasckovsky, the board focuses its attention on clearcut and severe attendance problems primarily among elemementary school students. A case only comes before the board after three or four attendance contracts between the school and the student have failed.

"Unfortunately we see quite a few families where the kids are in charge. Generally speaking, the kinds of poeole we are dealing with have multiple problems. Not sending their kids to school is one of many problems," said Vacsovsky.

Possible actions by the board can range from

Beating death suspect turns himself in to West Sacramento police

By Steve Marschke

One of two suspects in the beating death of a Sacramento man surrendered to police April 18 in the company of his lawyer.

Michael Andre Todd of Sacramento, age 29, was wanted in the death of James William, who was found on Johnson Rd. unconscious. The victim had been beaten with a blunt object and there were signs that a caustic chemical had been poured on his body and down his throat.

Police later determined that the victim was assaulted in Sacramento and dropped in West Sacramento.

Pajama Game: RCHS thespians are at it again

By Steve Marschke

River City High is just about ready for its next musical.

"The Pajama Game," a 1954 Broadway production being rehearsed under the direction of Roy Engoron, is slated for a May 4-13 run at Yolo High School's auditorium on Westacre Rd.

Raquel DeLaPaz, a sophomore who plays "Babe Williams" in the play, says the lighthearted piece is based on a strike at a pajama factory.

"The factory has a union, and they're trying to get a 7 1/2 cent raise," she explained.

"The boss has written in his books that he's given the raise, but he hasn't told the employees yet," added Brian Kinney, a junior who plays boss "Sid Sorokin."

Things spice up when Kinney's character loses his temper, and is taken to task by Rachel's character.

"I hit an employee, and the head of the grievance committee -- Raquel -- comes in, and over the course of time, we fall in love," said Kinney.

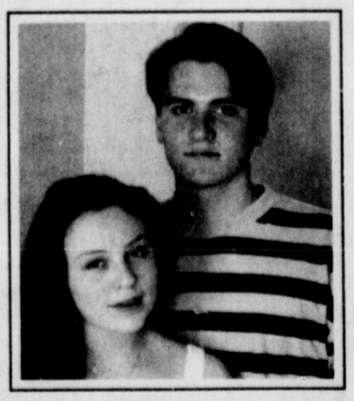

Both actors are somewhat prepared for their singing parts.

Irene Hernandez and Eddie Tacdol kick up their heels in rehearsal

"I've been on stage since I was nine, with the Dance Factory for many of those years," said DeLaPaz, who added that her voice "is not great" but does the trick.

Kinney played in a band, now on a break, called "Angry Popcorn." The band, made up of schoolmates at River City, played alternative music, he said. In addition to vocals, Kinney played keyboard for the band.

Raquel DeLaPaz and Brian Kinney, leads in 'Pajama Game'

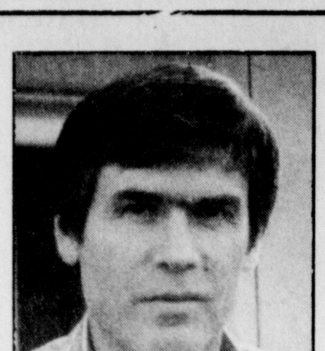

Both actors said their leader, drama instructor Roy Engoron, is "extremely demanding."

"I don't know why he's not directing Broadway shows or something," said Kinney.

"Everything I've seen him do turns out great," added DeLaPaz.

Curtain time for the May 4, 5, 6, 11, 12 and 13 engagements will be at 8 p.m. All seats are $6.00, and may be purchased at the door.

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

How could they?

I came home from work last Wednesday afternoon and when I opened the front door, the television set was on so loud I immediately demanded that my son turn it down.

"But haven't you heard?" he asked me with sad eyes.

"Heard what?" I asked, making my way into the living room.

"Somebody just bombed a really big building in Oklahoma."

"What?" I asked, sitting down next to him and turning my attention to an out-of-breath correspondent who was reporting that most of the children in the building's day care center had been killed.

"Someone blew up a day care center?" I asked my son in disbelief.

"It was part of some big federal building," he explained.

"Where in Oklahoma?" I asked.

"Oklahoma City -- right in the middle of town."

"How many people were in it?" I asked.

"They're really not sure yet," he answered, "But they think they're going to find an awful lot of dead people when they finally get done going through all the rubble."

"Do they know who did it?" I asked, wondering what possible cause in the whole wide world could justify blowing up a day care center.

"No," said my son, "but I sure hope they catch them."

"They will," I assured him as we sat side by side, stunned by all the human carnage on the television screen in front of us.

As I write this, what is left of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma is still being searched for bodies. Over fifty people, including more than a dozen children, have been pronounced dead, and that number is expected to triple in the days to come.

The bombing has been proclaimed the deadliest in U.S. history and a $2 million dollar reward has been posted for information leading to arrests and convictions of those responsible.

In time, I'm confident we'll know the names and political agendas of the human garbage who de-

SPORTS

The Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

It was close but no cigar for the Sacramento Kings as the Nuggets advance to the playoffs, defeating the Kings 102-89 in Denver on Sunday. The Kings fell apart in the fourth quarter like a cheap suit from K-Mart, after Brian Grant picked up his fourth and fifth fouls in a matter of seconds after battling back from a 13 point deficit.

The Kings never recovered, so now Denver goes on to face San Antonio in the best-of-five series, and I still have a pocketful of Kings playoff tickets!

It was a great season for the Kings, who won 39 games -- an 11 game improvement over last season. rumor has coach Garry St. Jean returning to the Kings on a three-year contract.

The NBA playoffs start on Thursday with the best of five series, and here are my picks: in the West -- San Antonio (3-1 games) over Denver; Phoenix (3-0 games) over Portland; Utah (3-2) over Houston; Seattle (3-2) over the Lakers. The Lakers could pull an upset over Seattle.

In the East – Orlando (3-0) over Boston; Indiana (3-1) over Atlanta; New York (3-0) over Cleveland; and Chicago (3-2) will upset Charlotte.

The 49ers did it again! The Niners stunned the NFL by trading their 30th overall pick in the draft to Cleveland for the 10th pick and other draft choices and selected UCLA's great wide receiver J.J. Stokes.

Player agent Leigh Steinberg was quoted on ESPN as saying, "it was just obscene how the Super Bowl champions could trade up and pick such a great receiver in the Jerry Rice mold."

The strong get stronger and the weak get weaker! It was interesting to watch as Dallas kept trading down, I guess to save money, as did the San Diego Chargers.

I think the Raiders made a mistake by gambling a little and selecting 5' 8" running back Napoleon Kaufman from Washington and passing up Heisman Trophy winner Rashaan Salaam of Colorado. Kaufman was the first running back selected by Al Davis since he drafted Marcus Allen in 1982.

The baseball season opens on Tuesday with replacement umpires! That's right, if the team owners and the Umpires Assoc. don't resolve their salary problem, the 1995 season will start with replacement umpires.

The Giants open the homestand on Friday, April 28 at 1:05 p.m. against Florida. All tickets are half price! The A's open at home on Friday, May 5 at 7:05 p.m. against Texas.

Boxing returns to Sacramento on Saturday, may 13, with 58 rounds of boxing featuring Lennox Lewis and Lionel Butler in a 12-round title elimination bout. Undefeated Willie Jorrin will take on Max Maldanado in a 10-rounder.

This fight card will be better than the George Foreman bout last Saturday, which Foreman should have lost.

Tickets are available at the El Azteca restaurant in West Sac.

See ya next week!!

River City High:

Solid play from baseball team

By Chuck Robinson

Last Tuesday, the River City High School varsity baseball team beat Marysville in a league make-up game by a score of 5 to 3.

River City scored 5 runs on 9 hits, 4 errors. Marysville scored 3 runs on 4 hits, 2 errors. Alex Victor was the winning pitcher and Justin Hanks was the catcher. Hitting for River City was Josh Meier, 1 for 3; Jeremy Deaton, 1 for 3; Justin Hanks, 1 for 3, 2B; Matt Degroot, 2 for 3, 1 RBI; Brandon Myers, 1 for 2, 1 RBI; Ryan Carr, 1 for 3, 1 RBI; and Josh Castro, 2 for 3, 2B, 3B, 2 RBI's.

Last Saturday, the Raiders lost to McClatchy 20 to 7. RC played a good game even though the score was lopsided. Mark Stott started the pitching and did a terrific job until he became tired in the fifth inning, when the score was tied 6 to 6. Things soon began to fall apart, as McClatchy racked up 14 runs in the bottom of the fifth. River City scored 7 runs on 13 hits, 7 errors. McClatchy scored 20 runs on 11 hits, 2 errors. Hitting was Alex Victor, 2 for 4, 3B, 1 RBI; Josh Meier, 3 for 4; Jeremy Deaton, 2 for 3, 2B, 1 RBI; Justin Hanks, 1 for 4; Matt Degroot, 2 for 4, 2B, 1 RBI; Ryan Carr, 1 for 3, 1 RBI; Randy Byard, 1 for 3, 1 RBI; and Josh Castro, 1 for 3, 3B.

River City's record overall is 8-6 and 6-1 in league. This week the Raiders travel to Lindhurst on Tuesday; Colfax on Wednesday; and Marysville on Thursday. On Tuesday, May 2, River City will play at home against Colfax. They will travel to Golden Sierra on Thursday, May 4.

River City High's tennis team is still mixing it up on the road

From River City High School

The travelling continued for River City High School's tennis team the past two weeks, even as the players were out of school for Spring Vacation in the week prior to Easter. The Raiders, who this week will play their first home match since March 17, visited Travis Air Force Base to take on Vanden High and journeyed to Angels Camp for an encounter with Bret Harte High School. In between, a planned road trip to Marysville for a Golden Empire League match was cancelled. The Indians were forced to forfeit when they did not have enough players during their Spring Break.

At Vanden April 11, The Raiders fell to the Vikings 5-2 with the wins coming from Chanthaphone Inthirath at #2 girls singles, and the newly formed mixed doubles team of Ty Fisher and Khonthavy Phouanglasy by identical 6-4, 6-3 scores. The most exciting match of the day came at #2 boys singles where sophomore Peter Santizo, playing in that position for only the second time this season, lost a marathon three-setter 7-6 (7-4), 3-6, 4-6.

After a scrimmage with Wheatland and the G.E.L. forfeit win over Marysville, the Raiders went on their longest road trip of the 1995 season to face Bret Harte last Thursday. Nearly four hours of tennis had produced a 3-3 overall match score when the R.C. girls doubles team of Meuy Saechao and Mirthala Santizo entered a

Southport: worth doing, and worth doing right

Within weeks, most of the planning for West Sacramento's Southport area (the city's 7,000 acre southern half) will be complete. All that will be left will be for individual development projects to fill in the details, and for the fitful process of construction to begin.

Whatever comes out of the plan will be of vital importance to the city and all of its inhabitants. If planned well, the area will pay its own way for city services instead of being a drain on them; it will provide enough residents to attract new retail shops to town; and it will bring hundreds more stable, middle class families to town, providing a boost to the quality of local schools.

And if done properly, the new development will provide attractive new neighborhoods for tens of thousands of new residents to live, as well as giving a lift to the city's beleaguered image.

If done poorly, none of these things will happen to the degree they should, and West Sacramento will have missed a grand opportunity.

When the Southport Framework Plan was begun several years ago, it was with ambition and fanfare. Four world-class design firms were invited to participate in a "charette" at the then-Hotel El Rancho (now a Buddhist monastery), showing off their visions of how Southport could be developed into an exciting, progressive new community.

There was talk of pedestrian-oriented development, reducing the need to commute by auto. There was talk of creating a "special" new neighborhood, and of avoiding another cookie-cutter, post-war style series of subdivisions.

There was talk of developing in a "back to the future" style, where tree-lined sidewalks, bicycle and pedestrian paths, front porches and corner markets would create true "neighborhoods," in the tradition of some of the most sought-after areas of Sacramento and other regions.

How well have these goals been met through the labors of the design firm, PBR, working with city staff and citizens?

We'll soon be able to answer that question, but not before making a few final corrections in the coming public meetings.

It will pay for the city's current residents to follow these meetings closely.

Letters to the Editor

Police brutality

I would like to first clarify the last paragraph of Hope Herr's April 12 letter to the editor of the News-Ledger, where she stated it was my being kicked by a mule as the reason for growing up a Republican.

Ms. Herr, I am not now or have ever been a Republican; quite the contrary, I grew up a Democrat and my first vote went to Harry S. Truman. The next went to J.F.K., and the last one went to L.B.J. Then I didn't want to be a Republican so I registered as an Independent. It concerns me that Ms. Herr would bring up wasting taxpayers money to fill the vacancy on the planning commission after the departure of Mr. Cahill after she took me to task for mentioning use of tax money to support illegal aliens. Some people seem to speak out of both sides of the mouth if it will fit their purpose.

Ms. Herr, I have a valid excuse -- what is your's? Could it be U.F.W. demonstrations? This may explain why you are a liberal Democrat?

Secondly, Warren "Red" Belden seems to think cops should be vindicated for mistreating a "subject" as they like to call their suspect. I don't care who the guy is, it is unlawful to mistreat their victim. There are two cases I can point to. Two Highway Patrol thugs stopped me a few years ago and beat and choked me and came close to killing me. I wore a light "t" shirt and I did not even have as much as a pocket knife and they said they were afraid of me -- this was their excuse for mugging me. I filed suit against them and three attorneys called me to ask if I would be a witness on behalf of their clients. Their cases were settled out of court. There were four cases in court at one time against those two C.H.P. officers. I could not get my day in court in the five years allowed so they threw it out of court.

Now, for the local police -- I shined a light on an S.P. engine which was terrorizing the people in the cul D sacs near the tracks, so here came two female cops with a R.R. Bull, pushed by door open, cuffed me and took me to jail, all without a search warrant. My wife and I tried to tell them I was under medical care for open heart surgery, but it was like talking to a stone wall. They told my wife to get back into the house or she would go to jail with me. I know first-hand what police brutality is like. So bravo to Chief Gore, keep up the good work and stop this brutality.

Traffic safety

The fatal accident on Jefferson Blvd. south of Stone Blvd. earlier this month demonstrated and unsafety of that barge life bridge, given its years of wear and tear and the increased daily use of recent times. The dangers of using such a slick bridge are increased when it rains, when vehicles increase or decrease speed on same and slick worn out tires don't help, either. The angle at which vehicles cross the railroad tracks increase the potential hazard, as some argued.

Heretofore, CalTrans and the federal agency controlling that little bridge/waterway we call the Barge Canal have not deemed the situation dangerous enough to take or allow corrective action. Intersections to the south were not deemed unsafe enough individually to warrant a new, wider, safer bridge, but collectively plus the slickness of the bridge should change the minds of the powers that be.

If the surface of the bridge cannot be made safer by applying some kind of non-skid topping, the time has come to: (1) Examine how long it has been and how long it will be before that "lift bridge" is lifted for a ship to go through (many years, in both cases, right?); (2) Insist that if the authorities insist on maintaining a lift bridge there, those authorities should fund same: a wider, safer bridge of more lanes just south of the present bridge...such an approach would seem to cause traffic to meet the slick railroad tracks at more of a right angle (close to 90 degrees) than present approach does; (3) Call on CalTrans to implement the same methodology to put this project on the fast track as they did with that sunken section of I-5 in the south state: draw up the contract so that an incentive is provided for completing a satisfactory bridge earlier...and finance that bonus with a special assessment district supplemental fee...surely those wanting improved safety and those wanting to build more homes, etc. before the industrial bridge is completed wold approve sharing such a small differential; (4) Emphasize the importance of not only the safety factor but a wider, safer Jefferson Blvd. bridge built much sooner would literally "open the bridge" (NPI) to a bonanza of new jobs and local sales tax revenues.

Message to the higher authorities: the trouble with "keeping our options open" too long is that in doing so, we remain at a standstill; i.e., we don't accomplish anything.

Not forgotten

cided they didn't have anything better to do with their worthless lives than blow up innocent human beings, but in the meantime, I'm reminded once again of the incredible power the mass media now has over each and every one of us.

As I flipped from one television channel to another Wednesday evening, I saw reports on -- among many other related topics -- the following: The hopes and fears of the numerous families who were waiting word on their loved ones; the painstaking search for miracles in the blast rubble; how car bombs work and how easy they are to make out of fertilizer and fuel; a terrorism bill which will no longer be on the slow track in Congress; the stepped-up security measures which were being taken for all federal installations, airports, and border crossings; how we should all be aware of the fact that the exact same thing could happen in downtown Sacramento; and what the Justice Department, FBI, numerous politicians, fire fighters, doctors, eyewitnesses, and anyone else who would grant an on-air interview had to say about the tragedy.

Then, as I watched a gung-ho television reporter stick a microphone under the nose of an obviously distraught man who had been helping remove dead bodies from the destroyed building and demand that he describe what he had seen in the goriest details possible (her exact instructions were,'Tell us absolutely everything you can about the death and destruction you saw in there'), it dawned on me that one or more sick individuals had indeed terrorized a city in the heartland of America, but it was our own mass media who was actually terrorizing the rest of the nation.

You know, it wasn't long ago -- only a few decades really -- when the average American didn't even own a television set. We got our news over the radio, or in newspapers, or by word of mouth, and most of it was local in nature. If something horrific happened in another town, or state, or nation, we felt terrible about it, but there was no relentless mass media to bring it into our living rooms, show it to us in living color from every angle imaginable, and in the process, convince us that the whole world was going to hell in a hand basket. We had time to digest the news we received, talk about it with friends and loved ones, and make some sense out of it. Now, within minutes of any god-awful event which takes place anywhere in the world, all the gory details are right there in front of us on a television screen, demanding the very same kind of emotional responses which are being felt by the individuals who are actually living through the experience.

I guess it's too late to put the genie back in the bottle, and whether we like it or not, America is at the forefront of an information revolution. But I wonder if we wouldn't all be a little bit better off if our homes weren't filled with television sets constantly demanding that all 250 million of us deal with every single aspect of the unimaginable?

Construction on Harbor Blvd. has meant that YOLOBUS Lines 40 and 41 have changed a little - to keep the times the same, we've had to shorten the route in downtown Sacramento - the last stop is now 9th and K Streets–

You can't board YOLOBUS Lines 40/41 at the 11th or 14th Streets stops, or anywhere on Harbor Blvd. between Sacramento Ave. and West Capital.

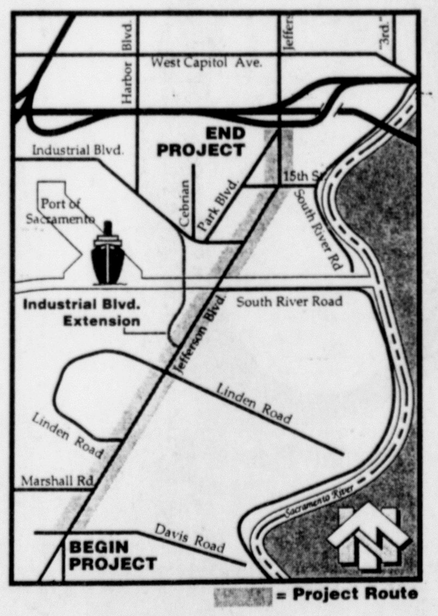

This will last four to six months

We appologize for any inconvenience this may have caused you. The reconstruction of Harbor Blvd. is a project of West Sacramento.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING AND AVAILABILITY OF ENVIRONMENTAL DOCUMENT

FOR THE JEFFERSON BLVD./STATE ROUTE 84 IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

The City of West Sacramento and the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) are planning to improve a 3.6-mile section of existing State Route 84 (Jefferson Blvd.) from 1,300 feet south of Marshall Road to State Route 50 within the City of West Sacramento. The project consists of upgrading the existing 2-lane roadway to a multi-lane conventional highway. The highway from Marshall Road to the new Industrial Blvd. extension would be 6 lanes. From Industrial Blvd. to State Route 50 it would be 4 lanes. The existing roadway would be reconstructed to provide shoulders, a bike lane, and a median. Included in the project is the construction of a new 2-lane low-level fixed-span bridge over the Barge Canal, west of and parallel to the existing bascule bridge.

An open forum hearing will be held and all interested members of the community are invited to attend. City staff will be present to talk with individuals, answer questions, and take comments. There will be a brief presentation to familiarize the public with the proposed project. The time and place of the hearing are listed below.

DATE: Thursday, May 25, 1995
TIME: 7:00 - 9:00 p.m.
WHERE: City Council Chambers
2101 Stone Boulevard, 2nd Floor, West Sacramento

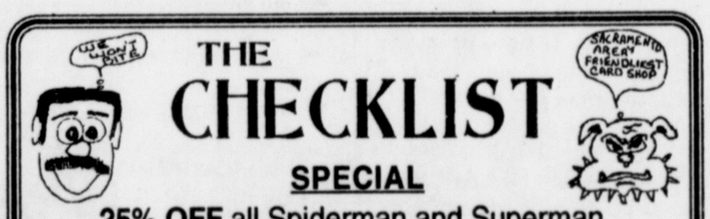

The City, in cooperation with Caltrans, has prepared an environmental document for this roadway improvement project. This environmental document is called a Draft Environmental Assessment/Negative Declaration. The finding of this environmental document is that there will be no significant adverse environmental effects from the project because potential adverse effects will be mitigated. The public review period for this environmental document is April 26 to May 26, 1995.

The environmental document, project maps, and other project information are available for review at the City of West Sacramento Community Development Department, 1951 South River Road, West Sacramento, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Other locations where the environmental document is available are the Turner Branch Library at 1212 Merkley Avenue, and City Hall at 2101 Stone Blvd.

If you cannot attend the open forum hearing but have comments concerning the project, please submit them in writing to the address shown below by May 26, 1995. Letters postmarked May 26 will be accepted.

What's New (for Kids) at The Library

If you liked 'Stinky Cheese' you'll love this kids' book

HUMOR FOR CHILDREN
THE BOOK THAT JACK WROTE
Jon Scieszka & Daniel Adel
Viking. Unpaged.
Jon Scieszka, author of "The Stinky Cheese Man" and "The True Story of the 3 Little Pigs," understands that children appreciate a bit of black humor as much as adults do. That's why he likes to take traditional children's tales and gives them a twist, or a couple of twists, as he does in this tortuous but hilarious treatment of "The House That Jack Built." The paintings by Daniel Adel make this slim volume worth revisiting again and again.

KIDS' COOKBOOKS
SAMANTHA'S COOK BOOK
American Girls Collection
Pleasant Company. 44 pages
For young women who are fans of the American Girls series, this collection of recipes will prove a delight. It includes "Tips for Today's Cooks" and how to "Plan a Tea Party," along with copious color illustrations of dishes in progress and the completed products. Breakfast, dinner, and desserts are covered, all in large type with an easy accessibility that will turn any aspiring young cook into an accomplished chef in no time.

JUVENILE SPORTS
THE YOUNG SOCCER PLAYER
Gary Lineker
Dorling Kindersley. 32 pages.
Young soccer fans shouldn't miss this slim but entertaining volume. It's chock full of full-color photos illustrating basic and intermediate soccer moves. Including are chapters on dribbling, heading, tackling and shooting, all presented in the matchless, lively graphic style that distinguishes all Dorling Kindersley books. Just put this book into the hands of a young soccer enthusiast/reader and watch the time fly by like a well-placed pass.

ALPHABET BOOKS
V IS FOR VANISHING
An Alphabet of Endangered Animals
Patricia Mullins
HarperCollins. Unpaged
A is for Armadillo, B is for Butterfly, C is for California. Yes, sadly, there's an endangered species for every letter of the alphabet, as this richly illustrated volume demonstrates.

EDAC to hear results of SACTO city tour

At their next scheduled meeting tonight, West Sacramento's Economic Development Advisory Commission will hear a report from the Sacramento Area Commerce and Trade Organization on its recent nationwide tour of cities with economic development successes.

The 14-member group of local government and education officials traveled to five cities in an attempt to gather information on industrial recruiting, military base conversion, education and government and industry cooperation. Each of the cities visited was highly successful in one or more of these key economic development areas.

Addressing the EDAC commissioners will be SACTO Executive Director Alan R. Gianini and City of Woodland Council Member David Flory, both of whom participated in the SACTO tour. The public is invited to hear this and other presentations beginning at 5:45 tonight in the city council chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd., West Sacramento.

Sulpizio now a director for Port board

Port leaders recently elected John Sulpizio of the Port of Sacramento to the board of the directors of the American Association of Port Authorities (AAPA). Board members were elected by their peers during the March 23 board of directors meeting held in Washington, D.C.

Sulpizio was recently named Sacramento's port director after serving eight years as the port's assistant director. Sulpizio has 24 years experience in community and economic development and port management. He is a strong advocate for deepening the channel at the Port of Sacramento to increase cargoes, enhance land values, and spur private investment on the waterfront.

AAPA's current chairman of the board is Davis Helberg, executive director of the Seaway Port Authority of Duluth. Chairmen of the other three AAPA delegations include Kenneth Krauter, Saint John Port Corporation, Canadian Delegation; Humberto Seijas, Instituto Autonomon de Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, Latin American Delegation; and Kurt Allahar, Port Point Lisas, Trinidad, Caribbean Delegation.

Founded in 1912, AAPA represents virtually every U.S. public port agency, as well as the major port agencies in Canada, Latin America, and the Caribbean. AAPA members are public entities mandated by law to serve public purposes. Port authorities facilitate waterborne commerce and contribute to local, regional and national economic growth.

Workshop on rentals, property management

A panel of experts will be on hand to provide landlords and property managers with helpful information at a free workshop on Thursday, April 27, between 3 and 5 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center, 664 Cummins Way, West Sacramento.

The workshop, entitled, "Your Rights and Responsibilities as a Landlord or Property Manager," will include information helpful in the day-to-day management of housing units, including:

- How to find good tenants and handle complaints;
- How to protect yourself against discrimination charges;
- How to process an eviction;
- How to keep a clean and well-managed complex; and more.

To find the senior center, take Jefferson Blvd. north past the intersection with Sacramento Ave., where Jefferson becomes Kegle Street. Continue north on Kegle to Cummins Way and turn right to the senior center.

Workshop participants should call in advance to register. For more information, call Mary Shearer, West Sacramento Development Agency, at 373-5843, or Deotha Chapman, Yolo County Fair Housing, at 666-8018.

wildlife in the region.

Yolo County is a Swainson's hawk habitat, which is on the endangered species list. State law requires that when the habitats of endangered species are developed, something be done to mitigate the effect.

"We are trying to devise a habitat conservation plan for county-wide mitigation so we don't continue in this pattern of a little here and a little there," said West Sacramento Senior Planner Terry Roberts.

West Sacramento is interested in finding ways fulfill its mitigation requirements without having to set aside land within the city. The county, on the other hand, has an ongoing policy that development will not cause a net loss of agricultural land in the county, according to Roberts.

As part of the three year study, a private environmental consulting firm, EIP Consultants, has predicted that Yolo County will develop 10,000 acres in the next 20 years. About 4,000 of which are in Southport.

"We're at the point where we need to begin getting some public input. The purpose of the meeting is to summarize the four technical reports submitted by the consultant," said Roberts.

The four studies cover land use, agriculture, economics and biological resources.

" The program seeks to develop a comprehensive approach to managing impacts to the habitats of sensitive threatened and endangered species in Yolo County.

"Based on the synthesis of the technical studies and input from the community forum, made up of a cross-section of community interest, alternative approaches will be developed during the spring and summer of 1995," said a press release announcing the meeting.

If a tract of land is identified which would be suitable for setting aside as a wildlife habitat, money currently being collected in development fees by the department of fish and game would be used to build a preserve.

A final plan is expected to be adopted by the middle of 1996.

requiring parenting classes to recommending that parents be brought to court. The education code allows the court for fines up to $100 for a first conviction, $250 for a second, and $500 for a third. In addition the court can add up to 175 per cent to a fine to defray court expenses. Court ordered work projects and even thirty days in jail are also possible punishments.

Because people in the district are aware that SARB is beginning to review cases, Vacsovsky believes the positive impact of the program on attendance to reach far beyond the families who actually come before the board. It takes several failed attempts at solving an attendance problem before a case comes before the board, and other parents are aware when pressure is being brought on families to get their children back in school.

"The feedback I get from people I work with indicates that for every one of the families tht goes to SARB, there are probably 5 to 7 whose attendance is improved," he said.

The bidding:

1 ♦	2 ♣	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

The signal is probably the most valuable weapon available to the defense, but, like any other weapon, there is a time and place for its use. Here is a case where a signal proved to be useless, partly because of a good play by declarer, and partly because one defender could not obey the command of the other.

West led the queen of clubs and East signaled for a continuation of the suit by playing the eight. Declarer correctly ducked the queen in order to hamper defensive communications. Had South taken the queen with the ace, he would surely have gone down.

West had no more clubs to lead and had no effective alternative move. In practice, he shifted to a low heart, but declarer won in dummy and led the king of diamonds. East took the ace and returned the ten of clubs, but he was fighting a losing cause. South won with the jack, led another diamond, took the next club with the ace and so made four notrump.

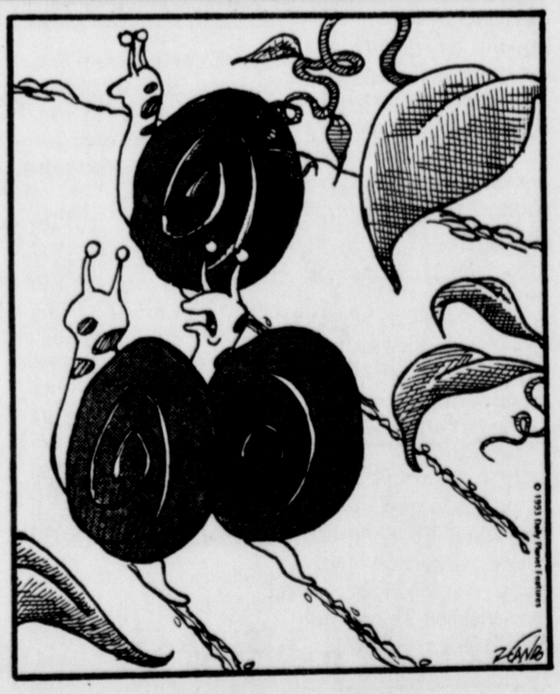

East should have realized that the queen of clubs might be West's only club in which case a signal would be futile. To protect against that possibility, East should have played his king of clubs on West's queen!

This would have fixed South's wagon beyond repair. Whenever declarer got around to leading diamonds, East would win, force out South's last club stopper, and thus set up his clubs before South could set up his diamonds.

East should know from the bidding that declarer has the A-J-x or A-J-x-x of clubs. In either case, overtaking the queen guarantees establishment of the clubs before the diamonds, while at the same time the play cannot cost East a trick. East should have signaled, all right, but with his highest club, the king.
